

is, therefore, in the possibility of their yielding to influences other than their own.

Americans continued to visit the Insurrection camp throughout the day, and met with a hearty reception.

Gomez Still Hopeful.
Washington, D. C., April 21.—The Mexican revolutionists may yet find it necessary to attack Juarez, and an armistice within a few days between the Federal and insurgent forces is still a strong probability. This was the inference drawn from to-night's activities of Dr. Vasquez Gomez, head of the confidential agency of the Mexican revolutionists here.

Dr. Gomez sent several telegrams to-night to Mexico, but the only information as to their contents was given in a statement which he issued. "It is impossible for me," said Dr. Gomez, "to reveal the nature of negotiations in which I am to-night engaged. All I can say is that within a few days I may be able to communicate something of great interest to the Mexican people. It is absolutely essential, however, that these negotiations be kept secret, as we are dealing with some delicate points."

Dr. Gomez gave the impression that he had just to work on Gomez, and play, and that an adjustment of the situation satisfactory to General Francisco I. Madero, Jr., may yet be effected. He was optimistic, and it is believed that he had received some assurance from the revolutionists which caused him to advise the rebel leaders in the field to be patient.

Praying for Peace.
Mexico City, April 21.—While all devout Catholics, at the request of the archbishop, to-day began to join in a prayer for the establishment of peace, official Mexico sees no way to avoid the conflict at Juarez.

Still refusing to treat with the rebels, the government has ignored the ultimatum issued by Francisco I. Madero, Jr., that Madero resign the presidency.

Optimists continue to believe that the promised battle may yet be avoided, but the number of optimists in Mexico continues to grow smaller each day, and to-night residents of the capital have a new cause for apprehension.

Two days ago a controversy arose at the agricultural school between the students and the directors. A small detachment of soldiers was sent to the institution to preserve order. The incident appeared closed, when the students of the school of medicine came forward with grievances. Last night, after having received promises of support from Puebla schools to-day, the "student question" assumed a political character.

At a mass-meeting to-night the students decided to join the "peaceful" wing of the revolution and ask President Diaz to resign.

The President Diaz thinks of yielding to the terms is not regarded as the remotest possibility.

The subject most discussed to-night is the probable outcome of a battle at Juarez. Few here believe that Madero has any chance to win.

Wants Complete Report.

Washington, April 21.—The American government is seeking to collect expeditiously a complete report of the facts bearing upon the question of American neutrality in the recent border warfare of the Mexican revolution, in order to be able to issue a prompt response to Mexico's representations. The War Department to-day sent a second telegram to Colonel Shanks, commanding the troops at Douglas, Ariz., asking him to hurry his report on all the incidents affecting the United States in the battles of Agua Prieta.

That Mexico may have no complaint of lack of precautions by the United States to prevent violations of neutrality, the War Department to-day repeated by telegram its previous request that the Department of Texas, Colorado and California, the three military divisions covering the entire Southern border, should order, forbid any American soldier crossing the international border, and provide for the disarming and holding, until further orders, all combatants crossing into the United States.

In view of reports that some citizens of El Paso, Texas, might adopt armed retaliaion in measures in case any American on this side were injured by an attack of Juarez, the department also instructed Colonel Stever, commanding the troops at El Paso, to "take necessary steps to prevent any such action, and to this end hold such troops as you have available ready to meet any emergency."

WALL STREET CASH SEIZED

Police Raid an Alleged Gambling House in the Financial District.
New York, April 21.—Eleven hundred dollars of Wall Street cash is in the hands of the police to-day as the proceeds of a raid on an alleged gambling house in the heart of the financial district late yesterday. The detectives found the well-dressed men of prosperous appearance engaged in games of chance. At $1,000 represents the total amount of cash which was on the various tables at the moment.

LOG BEARS LINCOLN'S NAME

William Morgan's Contribution to the Illinois Historical Society.
Springfield, Ill., April 21.—William Morgan, residing at Osbornville, in Christian county, yesterday carried to the statehouse a piece of red elm log, measuring nineteen and one-half inches in length and bearing on one side the carved inscription:
"A. Lincoln, March 7, 1837."

Mr. Morgan, who has been the possessor of the log for more than a year, gave it into the keeping of the Illinois State Historical Society.

That the log found a little over a year ago, in a pile of drift in the Sangamon River, was originally carved by Abraham Lincoln, the belief of Morgan and his neighbors.

CONTEST FOR OFFICE

Morehead and Holton Fail to Agree on Man for Assistant District Attorney.
Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Winston-Salem, N. C., April 21.—District Attorney A. E. Holton, who was state chairman of the National Republican party, has been through a "right-hand man" throughout the campaign last year, has gone to Washington, and his mission is said to be to secure the appointment of an Assistant District Attorney. It comes from good authority that Morehead and Holton, who were in conference here in connection with the election of a man for assistant to the state attorney, have failed to agree on a man for assistant to the state attorney. The state chairman wants to retain his kinsman, Ex-Judge Coble, of Statesville, who has held the job four years, while Holton is asking the appointment of a younger and more energetic man. His favorite is said to be A. H. Price, of Salisbury, who held the office under Holton for two years. Morehead's objection to Price is that he belongs to the National Committee, and is a "wing" of the party. In North Carolina and fought the present state chairman's candidacy last year.

WINS BY TWO MAJORITIES

Ex-Judge Ackles Renominated for Commonwealth's Attorney of Prince George's County.
Norfolk, Va., April 21.—That Ex-Judge A. K. Ackles was renominated for Commonwealth's attorney of Prince George's County by a two majority vote, was announced yesterday. It is shown by the face of the returns following correction of an irregularity from one precinct, where it was shown that more ballots were in the box than names appeared on the poll books. When a man was named, he drew one of the box five Ackles ballots, and one for Smith. There is a demand for a recount, and the matter may be thrown into the general election.

Other than Ex-Judge Ackles, who was renominated. This one was his brother, Sheriff Paul W. Ackles, whom Ex-Judge Ackles appointed to office originally during his one month's tenure on the bench, when the old County Court went out of existence.

OLD FIELD NOTES SHOW STATE LINE

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Raleigh, N. C., April 21.—An old document that is believed will now win for North Carolina the long-standing dispute between North Carolina and Tennessee as to the State line, was to-day delivered to Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes for safe-keeping until the case comes to trial, and thereafter it is to be returned to parties who loaned it to Attorney-General T. W. Bickett for use in the litigation. It is the field note book of Colonel William Davenport, the surveyor on the part of North Carolina when the State line was originally run in 1821, and gives in detail the course and distance of each of the 116 miles run by the commissioners. It shows a complete tally with the contentions of North Carolina. Until now no field notes could be found, and the map made at that time was not clear without the field notes. However, Captain William Davenport Jones, grandson of the noted surveyor, found the notes in an old sideboard at the old Davenport home, in Caldwell county. It was in a secret drawer of this sideboard, and is loaned to the State to be returned when the suit with Tennessee is settled.

Involved in the litigation is a strip of mountain region about twenty miles long and three miles wide, valued at something like $1,000,000. The Attorney-General of North Carolina brought the suit three years ago, to settle the most chaotic conditions growing out of disputed jurisdiction and relative force and land grants and other State instruments involved. At one time a Tennessee sheriff arrested a North Carolina sheriff, and it looks as if the States didn't come in for final adjustment in the territory. The taking of testimony will be completed by July 1, and the case will be presented to the United States Supreme Court, where the case is pending, and the Attorney-Generals of the two States will thrash out the argument.

Company B, Raleigh, won the first prize of $20 in gold for the highest team score. In the competitive rifle range shoot, in progress here the past three days, for the Third Regiment.

Company G, Raleigh, was second, getting the $10 prize. The team scores were made public until after the next day's shooting at Goldsboro next week, for the Second Regiment, and at Gastonia the following week for the First Regiment. The highest individual score was 123, out of a possible 150, this being by Private J. B. Beavers, of Company G, Raleigh, and the second highest 121, by Corporal Robert E. Lee, of Company B, Raleigh. The prizes dependent on the ultimate scores of teams in all three regiments are the Dupont loving cup and the Boyer and the Mearns medals.

A charter was issued to-day for the Harpeth Realty and Loan and Insurance Company, of Nashville, capital $50,000 authorized, and $5,000 subscribed. Another charter was for the American Realty and Loan Company, of Nashville, capital $25,000, by J. H. Williams and others. The capital paid in is $5,000.

SUSPENDED BY BROWN

Newark Manager and Two Montreal Players Out of Game.

New York, April 21.—Manager McGinnity, of Newark, and Players Natteess and Hardy, of Montreal, have been indefinitely suspended by President Brown, of the Eastern League, for fighting in a fist fight during the game with Montreal at Newark to-day. The fight developed from a dispute on a long hit by Kelly, of Newark, which the local man claimed rolled into the crowd, and on which Kelly was given three bases, according to the ground rules. McGinnity was crossing the field to explain the matter to Harrow, when, it is alleged, Natteess addressed an insulting remark to him (McGinnity). An exchange of blows followed, in which Harrow stepped up to defend his fellow-player. The three rolled on the ground, but were separated.

"There's a Reason"

TEARS OUT HIS EYE, HURLS IT AT JUDGE

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Viterbo, Italy, April 21.—Of all the methods adopted by the Camorrist prisoners to excite sympathy or to incite to a riot, none surpassed in novelty and effectiveness that of Gaetano Esposito, who, at the end of a mad rampage to-day, tore a glass eye from his head, and hurling it at the feet of the presiding judge, stampeded the courtroom. Then he fell in a faint, and President Bianchi suspended the sitting.

According to the state, Esposito, who is known as a usurer, is a dangerous malefactor, and succeeded Enrico Alfano as the head of the Camorra when Alfano fled to the United States, there to fall into the hands of Lieutenant Persino. He is charged with having been one of those who met at Bagnoli and condemned Gennaro Cuocolo to death for treachery to his associates in crime.

Attempts to Prove an Alibi.
The prisoner attempted to prove an alibi so far as the meeting at Bagnoli was concerned. At that time he was traveling, he said, between Milan and Rome. He gave a detailed account of his wanderings prior to the murder of Cuocolo and his wife, and gradually wrought himself up to a fine frenzy. He concluded in substance as follows: "It is true that I concealed myself at the time when I learned that I was to be arrested."

He even now, from heart disease, in my boyhood I lost one eye. I feared that I would die in prison from the malady which had already seized me, or, what would be even worse, that I would lose my other eye.

Throws Glass Eye on Floor.

Here the prisoner became hysterical and sobbed violently, his face in his hands. Suddenly he raised his head and, with a deft movement of the hand, released the glass eye and, throwing it on the floor before the judge's bench, bared his face, displaying a deep wound to the horror of spectators. Then for a few seconds he posed and then, with a choking cry, dropped to the floor in a faint.

As Esposito collapsed, a tumult was raised. From the steel cages the prisoners shouted, cried and cursed. One of the jurymen, who is a physician, went in to the assistance of Esposito, and President Bianchi declared the sitting suspended.

BOOM FOR HARMON NOW UNDER WAY

Washington, D. C., April 21.—The Ohio Democratic delegation to Congress, after scanning the political horizon to the East and the West, particularly toward Missouri, Nebraska and New Jersey, to-day decided to "snuck" coats and go to work in earnest for Governor Harmon, their candidate for the presidential nomination in 1912.

The Ohio Democrats met in the office of Senator Pomerene to talk over the situation.

Reports on the Harmon sentiment in all sections of the country were made to the meeting, and Senator Pomerene said at its conclusion that the strength of the Harmon sentiment surprised even the Ohio delegation.

"They showed that there is more sentiment for Governor Harmon in all sections of the country than for all the other candidates together," Senator Pomerene declared.

HOSPITAL WEDDING HALTED BY DEATH

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

New York, April 21.—Screens were drawn about the cot of a suffering man in ward 11, Bellevue Hospital, at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and nurses whispered to other patients there was going to be a wedding.

A young woman entered the ward, accompanied by a priest. Behind them came two clerks from the office of the marriage license bureau, and then followed Mrs. Curley, Baker and Simpson, of the hospital staff, and Miss Edna Imboden, head nurse of the ward. Soon two other young women and a man entered. They, too, went behind the screen.

The priest was about to begin speaking after a marriage license had been placed in his hands, when Dr. Curley placed over the cot and took hold of the sufferer's wrist. The patient's eyes were open and staring, but questions put to him were unanswered.

Death Had Intervened.
"It's too late," said the doctor, quietly. "The woman who stood closest to the cot, and who had consented to the deathbed marriage, swooned. They carried her from the ward. Her friends, the priest and clerk followed, while the doctors drew the screens close about the cot."

The dead man was John Reyevski, thirty-one, who lived in Seventeenth Street near the East River. The woman who was to have been his wife in the ceremony, was Mrs. Elizabeth Orszak, of 122 Avenue A, a widow.

Reyevski, assistant foreman of an iron foundry, was crushed April 10 under a beam at Seventeenth Street and East River. His left hip was broken, his foot so badly mashed it had to be amputated, and there were injuries on the body.

Reyevski was taken to the hospital. Mrs. Orszak had been a constant visitor. She sat by his cot every minute and nursed and comforted him.

Several days ago, when Reyevski was in a hopeless state, Mrs. Orszak was asked to convert the news to him.

"If you don't mind, you will marry me on my deathbed," he said. "There are some things I can leave to my wife which I may not legally leave to my sweetheart."

Mother Gives Consent.
Mrs. Orszak consented to the arrangement. Accompanied by her brother, George Orszak, she went to the city hall yesterday morning and obtained the marriage license. She then went to the hospital and asked him if there was any objection to the marriage.

"Not the slightest," said the doctor. "This young woman's devotion to that man has inspired me."

Mrs. Orszak with the license was sent to Bellevue yesterday at 1 o'clock. At the same time the Rev. Father Trout, pastor of St. John's Church, Seventy-second Street and Second Avenue, arrived with George Orszak, two women friends of Mrs. Orszak and a man friend of Reyevski.

The ceremony was to have been performed at 1:15. Reyevski died at 1:11.
